What Sets Us Apart

In Scotland, our Apprenticeships division supports approximately 1,200 new apprentices each year, spanning from the Borders to the Highlands. We are the only provider that partners with all major technology vendors, including AWS, Google, Databricks, and Microsoft offering free vendor certification courses alongside the apprenticeship.

For your apprentice

 Our Assessors. In addition to the course tutors who facilitate classroom training, QA learners each have an assessor whose sole role is to support them through their apprenticeship.

Without exception all our assessors are formally qualified Skills Coaches and have direct experience of the sector or industry in which the apprenticeship is based. This means that for a Digital Marketing Apprenticeship for example, the Assessor will have a background in marketing as well as a formal coaching qualification.

- Al in every programme. Al is impacting all roles in today's marketplace. It is critical to economic success and essential to the skills agenda. QA is the only training provider to ensure every apprentice is skilled up in Al. Our offering includes a blended learning pathway covering Co-Pilot, Al literacy and how to successfully leverage Al advantages in the workplace.
- ELA. Our Al online Learning Assistant ELA is trained on QA programmes and gives instant support to our learners as they study. Learners can:
 - · Request on-demand test questions
 - Contextualise content for their industry
 - Summarise lessons
- Our Learner Support Team. For apprentices who need extra support, who may be disabled, neurodiverse or have health or mental health concerns, QA has a 13 strong Learner Support Team with dedicated learner resources for Scotland who will step in to support that learner in their apprenticeship. Referral is simple and solutions and support are put in place immediately.
- Our Safeguarding Team. Our Safeguarding Team provides a series of free live sessions, webinars and guides across a variety of wellbeing and diversity areas such as Coping with Stress, Mental Health Awareness, Neurodiversity Matters, Combatting Loneliness and others.

If you feel you need support with a safeguarding concern please contact our Safeguarding Team: safeguarding@qa.com

Empowering Apprentices

Your impact as a manager

As a line manager, you play a key role in helping your apprentices succeed.

Your support, guidance, and encouragement can make a big difference in their learning, confidence, and career development.

Set Clear, Achievable Goals

This gives apprentices a sense of direction and purpose, and allows them to track their progress and celebrate milestones. For apprentices with SEND needs QA's 6-strong Safeguarding Team will work with you to set achievable and appropriate goals.

Recognise and Celebrate Achievements

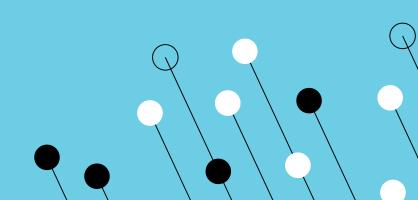

Regularly acknowledge apprentice's efforts—whether it's completing a project, mastering a new skill, or simply showing improvement. Recognition boosts morale and reinforces positive behaviour.

Provide Regular Feedback and Mentorship

Constructive feedback helps apprentices grow. Pair them with mentors who can guide, support, and inspire them throughout their development.

Seek Their Input

Ask for their ideas. Involving them in decision-making shows that their voice matters and helps them feel more invested in their work.

Progression Apprenticeships

As your apprentices grow in confidence and capability, their roles naturally evolve—and so should their learning. Progression Apprenticeships offer a seamless pathway for continued development, enabling your team to build on their existing skills with higher-level qualifications, including access to graduate apprenticeships with our partner at the University of the West of Scotland (UWS).
